Welcome to Fate's Horizon!

> As of right now (11/2026) the website is almost entirely empty and needs major work done. This includes everything aside from the colour scheme. :P

You can find a summary of the history of humanity by following the link. While the historical eras are open for creators and explorers alike, the majority of the content takes place Post Shattering.

This archive largely uses an adapted version of the Universal Decimal Classification for its Shelves. This should allow an easier access to in-universe works. Shelves without a number are largely out of universe and/or meant as technical backbone for this website.
